

Please start doing something about what the major channels pass for family entertainment. Your obvious lack of action results in a substantially more abhorrent programs as was seen during the Super Bowl half time shamefullness. When will the FCC stand up to these commercial giants and help the families of the United states of America have decent programing that children can watch?